LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—(AP)—
Aimee Semple McPherson, broke down in the midst of her morning services at the Temple Bible school today and brokenly announced she was too ill to continue. She returned to her adjoining home. Meanwhile the district attorney's staff continued investigation and collection of evidence upon which it had been stated at the prosecutors office that warrants for the arrest of Mrs. McPherson and five others might be issued tomorrow.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—(AP)—
With a number of arrests imminent, a sensational climax was forecast today in the Aimee Semple
McPherson kidnapping investigation.

District Attorney Asa Keyes, pushing the inquiry into an alleged perjury conspiracy, said he would question a number of persons thought to be implicated by the recent expose of the "Miss X" hoax.
The reopening of the entire Mc-Pherson case was caused by Mrs.
Lorraine Wiseman Sneloff, who charged that she had been hired and financed to conjure up a mythi-cal "Miss X" as the companion of Kenneth G. Ormiston, former Angelus temple radio operator, during a 10-day sojourn at Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Witnesses in previous investigations testified that a man identified as Ormiston had occupied a cottage at Carmel with a woman companion shortly after the evangelist disappeared last May.
From an authoritative source it has been learned that plans are underway to take the Angelus temple pastor into custody within the next 48 hours. At least two others and possibly five persons face arrest on charges of subordination of perjury it was said.

Officers Search For Stolen Car

Officers are searching today for a Ford touring car, 1925 model, belonging to T. Whitlow of Trinity, which is reported to have been stolen Monday afternoon from the east shop gate. Mr. Whitlow said today that the car was taken between the hours of 12, noon, and 3:45. Whitlow is an employee of the L. and N. The license tag of the car is given as A-54188.

Pests Marching Over Sidewalks

Forming a battle array that is no more pleasing to townspeople
than it is to farmers, cotton worms are infesting practically every field in the city limits and in a number of instances have striped fields clean in the work of a few hours. The worms are not infrequently seen upon the streets
and sidewalks, crawling uniformly.
This peculiarly caused the name
"army" to be given the cotton pest.

RETURNED TO CULLMAN

Cullman officers returned Alvin McIntyre following his arrest in Morgan county, local officers stated today. McIntyre was accused of having stolen an automobile, the property of a blind man.

Continued Floods In Middle-West Marked By Breaking of Levee And Posse Works To Check The Flow

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—(AP)— Continued floods in the middle-west which have caused more than $1,000,000 damage were marked by the breaking of a levee on the Skunk river near Wever, Iowa, today.

Much farmland soon was under water as farmers and prisoners from Fort Madison penitentiary worked feverishly to check the flow. A four-foot gap widened to seven feet
within an hour.

The main section of the levee, which protects thousands of acres of farmland was still intact but the river rose half a foot during the night.

NEW YORK-PARIS FLIGHT IS DELAYED

Leak In The Gasoline Tank of Plane To Be Repaired

WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 16.—
(AP)—The New York to Paris
flight of Captain Rene Fonck, French ace, and three companions,
was postponed today because of a leak in their biplane's gasoline tank. The leak was found as they were preparing to hop off.

Igor Sikorsky, designer and builder of the huge three-motored biplane, gave orders to put the plane back into its hanger when it proved difficult to stop the flow of gasoline which was leaking at the rate of 10 gallons an hour.

Fear had been expressed that if the fliers did not get underway today weather conditions might not permit them to start this year.

Tentatively the start of the flight was set again for tomorrow.
Mr. Sikorsky said the trouble was quickly located and that it was a small matter to repair. He expressed the belief the plane probably would take off tomorrow, if weather conditions are favorable.
Investigation showed the head of a bolt in the gasoline tank had sprung off. Workmen said there were over 20,000 bolts in the airplane.

Mr. Sikorsky presented Fonck with a gold key this morning to lock up his plane. Some 600 spectators gathered at the starting plane today to witness the takeoff.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—
(AP)—The Philadelphia Sesquicentennial exposition is denied the "right, privilege or authority to authority to open, hold or conduct" the exposition on Sunday under a decision of the Dauphin county court today.

The court held that Sunday operation of the exposition is "worldly employment," that it is not a work of necessity or charity and that the amusement and recreation within the exposition grounds are clearly in violation of the act of 1794. This act is the so-called "Blue Law" prohibiting worldly amusements on Sunday.

for a Dempsey-Wills boxing match,
B. C. Clements, president of the Chicago Coliseum club, left today
for Philadelphia with plans to halt
the Dempsey-Tunney fight sched-

request that they declare the bout off and that he would go before the Pennsylvania courts in quest of an order restraining the delivery of money to Dempsey.

"This is not a boxing injunction," Clements said. "It is a property

THREE TROPICAL STORMS CHARTED BY BUREAU TODAY

Nassau Now Awaiting Approach Of The Hurricane

NO ANXIETY FELT IN CITY

All Vessels Warned
To Remain in Port
For Time Being

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.— (AP)—Three tropical storms were charted by the weather bureau today, the principal one being about latitude 36 north and longitude 71-30 west, moving northward attended by winds of hurricane force near its center.

This would place it about 300
miles off Cape Hatteras.
A storm that was southwest of Nassau Wednesday morning now is centered between Nassau and Miami, apparently moving slowly north northward. The third disturbance is between Porto Rico and Turks island, moving west northward.

NASSAU, Bahamas, Sep. 16.—
Nassau, with moderately fair weather conditions prevailing today, awaited the approach of the tropical storm which has centered momentarily central a short distance from the island of New Providence, the first disturbance
since the devastating hurricane of late July.

No anxiety is felt here, however.
Colonial officials were advised that the storm, believed to have originated in the Caribbean sea
passed over Central Cuba Monday night and has increased in intensity in moving northward.

All vessels have been warned to remain in port, and craft in the Miami-Nassau trade have been cautioned to await further storm developments before venturing forth.

MUCH DEPENDS ON WEATHER IN FIGHT ON COTTON WORM

Many Fields Almost Stripped By Pests,
Observers Say

HOPE YET HELD FOR FAIR YIELD

Older Bolls Likely To Mature In Spite
Of Worms

The cotton worm is literally
"eating up" numerous cotton fields
in the immediate vicinity of the Twin Cities, but, paradoxical as it may seem, there is serious doubt whether the invasion of the pest at this time will be in the nature of the serious blow at cotton prospects it would indicate on the surface.

The worm is eating away the foliage of the plants, literally stripping some of the fields, observers declare. Yet many of the bolls have passed the stage where they will be hurt by the worm.
These bolls, if weather conditions are favorable, will mature very rapidly, giving a fairly good yield.

The greatest damage from the worms here is expected to result from the attacks of the pest on the smaller bolls, many of which will never mature because of the invasion of the pests.

If the weather continues fair
and warm and there is no early frost, many observers believed that the yield of cotton in this immediate territory will not fall far beneath the standard, despite the fact that worms never were more numerous.

In the meantime the more cautious farmers were using poison freely and the invasion of the worms has been depulsed in some areas. In others, particularly in the fields in which poison has not been used, it is declared that the worms have been repulsed in some plants, but all over the ground, and in some cases actually have entered the homes which are adjacent to cotton fields.

Albany Council To Meet Friday

Actor Broke, Hangs Himself At Apartment

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)— Earl Cavanaugh, 38, and actor, hanged himself early today
in his apartment while his wife and daughter, Ruth, were celebrating the daughter's birthday in the company of friends in a neighboring restaurant.
Cavanaugh was without work
and police say he was despondent because he had no money to go to the bedside of his dying mother in Chicago, or to buy his daughter a birthday present.
The birthday party was attended by a fellow actor but Cavanaugh excused himself from attending, pleading he had a headache.

PROMINENT MAN TAKES OWN LIFE

Financial Reverses Cause Death Of Fitzpatrick

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 16.—
(AP)—Harris W. Fitzpatrick
prominent in New Orleans politics for years, shot and killed himself in his home here last night.
The body was found this morning
by his wife.

Mr. Fitzpatrick had been in ill health sometime due to a nervous breakdown.

For the past several years he had been prominent in real estate circles. He was well known in southern athletic circles and had been a champion walker.

The suicide was believed to have occurred early this morning. He had suffered a nervous breakdown sometime ago following financial reverses.

The body was found in his bedroom (a revolver by his side and he apparently had been dead for some time when found. Mr. Fitzpatrick was a director of the Whitney Central bank and a member of many clubs and organizations.
For several years he was president of the Amateur Athletic union.

He gained prominence in real estate circles several years ago
when he sold several million dollars of government property, including one entire town on the gulf coast. He is survived by the widow and two children.

All Developments In
Trial Followed
With Interest

A. L. (Shorty) Davis, of Hartselle, alleged slayer of Jeff Howell,
also of Hartselle, must serve 25 years according to a decision of a jury in circuit court.

The verdict of the jury was reported to Judge Kyle, presiding, something after eight o'clock last night.

The case went to the jurors late Wednesday afternoon after a whole day and part of a second day had been devoted to the court to the hearing of the noted case. Following the conclusion of the arguments of attorneys, Judge Kyle delivered an able charge to the jury and it retired for its deliberations.
The Davis case began on a quiet
Sunday evening on Second avenue with the shooting to death of young Howell. The tragedy occured on upper Second avenue, near the intersection of Grant street and Second avenue. Feeling between the two young men is said to have resulted from incidents occurring in their home city.

The prominence of the deceased
and the defendant and the circumstances of the slaying attracted wide attention and the two trials were attended by large crowds. At Davis' first trial he was sentenced to 40 years, but on appeal a new hearing was ordered by the higher court.

Almon and Almon and W. W.
Callahan appeared for the state
while the defense was represented
by John Sample, of Hartselle.

ATHENS COLLEGE BEGINS SESSION

Enrollment Is Large
As School Enters
84th Year

(By D. L. ROSENAL, Jr.)
Athens College threw wide its doors Wednesday to mark the opening of the eighty-fourth successive year of its history. The pupils had been arriving for several days, and a crowded auditorium of students, parents, and townspeople were present to hear the opening address of Dr. Stonewall Anderson, general secretary of the educational board of the Methodist Episcopal church South, who delivered an address along educational lines with particular emphasis on modern conditions and the modern trend in education and morals. Addresses were also made by Dr. George W. Reed of Birmingham, president of the Board of Trustees, Dr. J. S. Robertson, presiding elder of the Decatur district, and Mrs. J. H. McCoy, president of the institution, these latter speaking mainly in the interest of the half million dollar endowment drive now being waged for the college.

The enrollment to date is very good and every train continues to bring additional registrants; when registration is complete it is said that the number of pupils will be approximately 20 per cent increase over last year. Assignments for recitations have already been given out, and by the end of the week it is believed the school will be running in its normal channels.

KIWANIS HAVE NOVEL DEBATE

The Athens Kiwanis club staged something out of the ordinary Tuesday night at their regular meeting when R. B. Patton, leader for the occasion, announced that the feature of the evening was a debate of the subject "Resolved that the Methodists as a class are better than Baptists as a whole." Dr. Cutts, local Baptist minister, representing the Methodists and Dr. E. G. Mackey, Methodist minister, taking the part of the Baptist. Dr. J. R. Crawford, Presbyterian minister, acted as judge. For several minutes the speakers told quite pointedly what they thought of the other side, and at the close Dr. Crawford, the judge, being of conscientiously Presbyterian stock, refused to make a decision, hinting that he had doubts as to whether either speaker was telling the truth.

CONGRESSMAN ALMON TO SPEAK

Hon. Edward B. Almon, United States Congressman from this district, is announced to speak at the courthouse in Athens next Monday morning at ten o'clock. The affair will be in the nature of a general get-together so that Judge Almon may be with his Limestone friends and discuss national questions.

LIMESTONE GETS WAR RELIC

A large German cannon, one of the trophies of the late war, arrived in Athens this week to complete the county's quota of war relics and has been put on display in the courthouse yard with several machine and smaller guns which arrived earlier in the season.

NO FIRE RECORD

The City of Athens Fire Department passed a lazy month in August, statistics showing that not a single blaze occurred during the month. The city has two trucks, one being stationed in the City Hall and the other having quarters near the power plant.

ATHENS, Ala., Sept. 16.—This week has witnessed the return of the Athens College girls for another year, the town being crowded Wednesday, the opening day, with students and their relatives who came for the opening exercises. Registration was completed almost automatically, and affairs at the college are about normal again.

Mrs. Nute Hatchett and Mrs. C. O. King have returned from a motor trip to Birmingham. Mrs. R. M. Rawls is spending a few days at Red Boiling Springs. Mrs. Buford Thompson of Cullman, is visiting her father, Mr. Harris Rogers. Walter Campbell of Texas, a former resident of this county, is

Anniston Plans For County Fair

ANNISTON, Ala., SEPT. 16—(AP)—Plans are now being made for the annual Calhoun county fair to be held here in October. J. T. Coleman, manager, announces that twice the number of poultry, farm and home products will be exhibited this year.

Cattle and poultry entries have shown a considerable increase over last. One of the features of the fair will be an automobile show.

is being made on the cotton fields of the county this week; in many places, especially where the weed is late in bearing fruit, poison is being used but in the main the worm is given its way and as a result the stalk, stripped of its leaves, is becoming white as snow with its opening bolls. Picking of the staple has begun now in earnest.

Telling the World About Alabama

HERE are some of the magazines used by Alabama Power Company to tell the story of Alabama's matchless resources. The company has also shown in practically every state a series of industrial motion pictures, all produced in Alabama at its own expense. Exhibits at trade expositions in Chicago, New York, and Boston have aided personal solicitors in selling Alabama opportunities to the business world. As a result of this persistent effort—

25 Major Industries With an Aggregate Annual Payroll of $7,500,000 Have Located Since January 1st.

Alabama Power Company solicits the co-operation of Chambers of Commerce and other commercial and civic bodies in towns throughout the state in this effort to attract to Alabama industries and business enterprises which will add to the wealth of our people. United action will achieve even greater results than those recorded here.

TODAY 12 Years Ago

From The Daily of September 16, 1914.

Plans are being discussed for organization of a football team here, to be led by Lewis Hardage, former Vanderbilt and Auburn star.

A meeting was held yesterday afternoon by persons opposing the change of New Decatur's name.

Mrs. W. T. Conner, of Florence, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Fannie Wallace.

Mrs. Emma Sykes has returned after a short stay in Courtland.

Misses Lottie and Ethel Kelley are visiting friends in Town Creek today.

Mail clerks have been ordered to shoot to kill, that will bring a temporary halt to the daylight robberies.

As this September goes into history you alone are at fault if you are not making business better in these cities. Buy at home, the home merchant can give you the best for your money.

Limestone and Lawrence counties are going to press Morgan county for the blue ribbons and prizes at the North Alabama fair. The judges in those contests are going to have a tough job, each of the three counties grows the best in agriculture.

A number of communities have provided radio equipment for their fire departments. The Daily's attention was called sometime ago to the possibility that the people of Albany and Decatur might be interested in raising a fund for this purpose for the two Twin-City departments.

Firemen have unusually difficult positions, in that they are required to remain on the job 24 hours. It is true that much of their time is unoccupied. That, however, makes their task the harder. A radio in the two fire halls would do much to dispell the boredom of the long winter evenings when the firemen have little to do except to sit and wait for a call to protect the property of citizens.

Because of their unusual positions, the firemen are deserving of unusual treatment at the hands of the public, and The Daily would receive with much pleasure an expression of willingness on the part of any citizen to raise the small sum necessary to purchase the equipment and The Daily will be glad to contribute to such a fund.

MAINE GOES REPUBLICAN, BUT IT HASN'T THE SAME SIGNIFICANCE.

Maine has gone republican, but that statement, taken a few years ago as a political barometer, heralding a storm at sea for the democratic craft, no longer has the same significance.

There was a time when the democrats remember when Maine, first of the states to vote, had cast her ballots, that the result was pretty fair indication of the national trend of political thought.

That, however, was before the days of prohibition, World Court, Ku Klux, Anti-Ku Klux, and the countless other issues which arise today to harass office seekers and confuse the voters.

Yes, Maine has gone republican, but in the words of the world renowned Rube Goldberg, "It doesn't mean anything."

ITALY MAY REVIVE PENALTY OF DEATH FOR MURDERERS.

Italy abolished the death penalty 50 years ago, but finds it may be necessary to establish it. Human beings in Italy are contrary, as they are in other nations. Humans lack much of being perfect, whether they reside under the rule of Mussolini or the government of the United States.

Mussolini, object of many attempts at his life, declares he is not fearful. He appears the calmest figure in the whole Italian picture.

"You ask me why I do not protect what I call my person from the assassins," the premier told an American newspaper man. "There is no need. My star protects me as Italy is protected. I shall die a natural death. As I live now there must be adventure, and I must be free to come and go among the people. Always my people."

Mussolini professes to believe he is protected by his star. Americans generally believe that the greatest protection they have from assassin's bombs or bullets would be the execution post-haste of the assassins.

If the agitation for revival of the death penalty in Italy is an indication of the feeling of the people, the masses there think pretty much as Americans do.

RECORD OF LOCAL SCHOOLS IN COLLEGE ENROLLMENT IS GOOD.

The article published in The Daily Wednesday afternoon showing thirty of the 67 graduates of Albany and Decatur high schools last year are enrolled in institutions of higher learning this year reflects credit not only on the students themselves, but upon the schools from which they matriculated.

The local high schools not only have carried these students as far as their curriculum permits, but they have instilled in the students a desire to continue their pursuit of their studies, with the result that nearly half of them have enrolled in colleges and universities of the South.

The directors and the faculties of the local schools may take unto themselves deserved gratification at the success of their work.

STAY OUT OF PARIS NEXT YEAR IS HOWARD'S WARNING.

If the American Legion still is determined to hold a convention in Paris, it would be well to make the date in 1928 instead of 1927, is the word brought back from Europe by Roy Howard, head of the United Press, who has just returned from an extended foreign tour.

Feeling against Americans in France is such at this time that the trip in 1927 would not be enjoyable, Mr. Howard warns. The feeling may have been dissipated by 1928, he adds, and the visit then would be an entirely different matter.

The thousands of ex-service men who have been laying aside their weekly savings with the view of spending it in Paris in 1927 will not agree with Mr. Howard, or anyone else who holds similar views. Because President Coolidge did not settle the French debt to the liking of the French diplomats, whose duty it was to secure the best settlement they could for their country, is no reason why the French people and the American ex-soldiers, ex-marines and ex-sailors should not get along.

The American fighting man has been in embarrassing positions before. He will not mind when he gets to Paris in 1927.

LOCAL PEOPLE WOULD BE GLAD TO WELCOME BIRMINGHAM-SOUTHERN.

The Daily hopes that the efforts of Dick Fennell, local student at Birmingham-Southern, to bring about a meeting here between that team and the University of Chattanooga will be entirely successful. For several reasons this newspaper hopes such is the case.

In the first place, Birmingham-Southern being an Alabama institution and the school of a large and growing religious denomination here naturally occupies a prominent place in the interest and the affection of the people of this section. They would be delighted at an opportunity to display this interest and affection.

Secondly, The Daily believes that a game here between two college teams would do a great work in providing an object lesson to local people who fail to support the athletic teams of the local high schools.

Thirdly, the game would be an object lesson for the younger generation in support of their school and in sportsmanship. It would be a fine thing for the youths who compose the athletic talent of the local schools to see two splendidly trained college teams in action.

In the fourth place, The Daily believes that the game between Birmingham-Southern and Chattanooga would reveal the feasibility of conducting college games here, with the result that other colleges might be persuaded to scheduled contests on a local field.

This newspaper has dreamed for years of a Vanderbilt-Alabama game in the Twin-Cities, Albany and Decatur are located almost halfway between Tuscaloosa and Nashville and no place could be selected which would be so accessible to the students of the two institutions. What a crowd a Bama-Vandy game would draw here!

HOW LONG WILL IT BE BEFORE BUS LINES HALT THE "LOCAL" TRAINS?

Ever so often the press carries a story of the passing of another "local" or perhaps better known as "accommodation" trains and substitution of the motor busses instead.

The latest which has fallen under the attention of the Daily says:

Wartrace, Tenn., Sept. 14.—(Special)—F. W. Kelsey, superintendent of the Nashville and Chattanooga division of the N. C. & St. L. railway, created something of a sensation Monday afternoon when he arrived in Wartrace in the first motor bus ever brought here. He came with a view to establishing a bus line between Wartrace and Huntsville, Ala., which will mean the passenger service on the Shelbyville branch line will be discontinued.

The railroads, no doubt, are being pretty badly pinched by the competition of the automobile, both private and public. The Daily, from time to time, has raised its voice in behalf of the railroads lest they not be given the degree of protection they are entitled to from indiscriminate competition of bus lines.

Fortunately for the railroads and for the public as well, legislators are coming to a realization of the importance of this new problem in modern traffic and there is high hope that the railroads will not be treated unjustly.

There is some sadness in the passing of the "accommodation" trains from so many tracks. There is something awe-inspiring about the fast through trains which come lumbering through the rural districts, but it was the "accommodation" which supplied the real point of contact between a large share of public and the road.

Many of these "locals" were manned by crew familiar with every inch of the comparatively small section it traversed, and possessing personal acquaintance with thousands of the residents of this area.

The motor bus may be able to render to these people a better service in transportation than they received before, but the motor bus will never occupy quite the same relation to the public as did these short line, frequently crowded, most of the time dusty, but always affectionately known "accommodations."

(By ARTHUR BRISBANE)

Lenin did to the czar. When the state kills a criminal, it justifies killing, to the criminal mind. The political assassin says where capital punishment exists, "I stake my life against my opponents life, therefore I am manly."

Also observe that abolition of capital punishment in Italy has diminished the number of murders.

However, power to execute whole groups for conspiracy against Fascism, as Kemal hangs groups of men for conspiring against him, in Turkey, might prolong the life of Fascism as a governing force.

MUSSOLINI's threat against France will increase French satisfaction over the entrance of Germany into the league and what seems to be friendship established between Europe's two great republics.

Let France and Germany say sincerely, "1870 balances 1914, one wipes out the other. The great French and German republics will stand together to maintain democratic government in Europe."

Such a statement would mean permanent peace, as long as the two republics and the British empire choose to have it, barring, of course, the rise of some overwhelming military genius in Russia, uniting Mediterranean nations, and letting hell loose once more.

THE solemn London Athenaeum questioning its readers on religion, announces these results:

One thousand three hundred and thirty-eight answers have been received. Five hundred and thirty-seven believe in "a personal god," 736 do not believe in such a being.

Four hundred and seventy-four in 819 denied the divinity of Christ.

Six hundred and sixty-six believe in some form of Christianity, 595 believe in Christianity not at all, 578 believe in personal immortality, 646 do not.

Those "high brow" readers, educated men and women, represent a small minority among the 1,600,000,000 human beings on this earth, nearly all worried, miserable, hoping that whatever power put them here has arranged some future plan better than this one.

HERBERT SPENCER, in his old age, when he had outlived his greatest fame, said, "My intelligence compels me to look forward to annihilation," and the conviction made him a sad old philosopher.

Millions that say, "I know my Redeemer liveth," and go about their business, comforted by faith, are happier than Spencer, or Athenaeum readers, that refuse even to hope.

DESPODENT atheists were answered by Charles Fourier, a truly great French philosopher, who said, "Attractions are proportionate to destinies. Nature does not deceive her children, or create false hopes. The fact that human beings all desire immortality, and believe in it, proves that immortality is our destiny."

VOLTAIRE, whom his castigated and defeated enemies falsely call "atheist," believed in God and immortality. Such discussion as the Athenaeum raises, he called, "questions of blind men that ask other blind men, 'what is light?'"

"Des questions d'aveugles, disent a' D'autres Aveugles, qu'est ce que la lumiere?" See the chapter on the soul in the first volume of his philosophical dictionary.

THE Erie railroad says motor omnibuses have cut its receipts by more than $1,000,000 a year.

That's sad, but, the Erie's intelligent president knows that railroads killed the stage coaches entirely, and crying did not help the stage coach owners.

The people own their highways, they want motor buses and will have them, just as they will have flying routes.

Railroad men must use their brains in this emergency. Political tools, usually relied on, will not meet the situation.

YOU cannot legislate motor buses and flying machines out of existence now, any more than you could kill the railroad 125 years ago. British aristocracy tried that, calling in the clergy to prove that snorting locomotives were wicked and disrespectful to God. But the locomotives continued snorting.

FOUR NUNS, including one Mother Superior of Franciscan convent in Massachusetts, are arrested, accused of smuggling into this country from Canada $5,000 worth of fine laces, carried in hidden pockets.

This will be exploited by those that specialize in hostility to the Catholic church.

THE incident has no more to do with the Catholic church than the Reverend Doctor Hall's career and murder have to do with the Episcopal, or any other Protestant church.

In addition, should the charge against the nuns be sustained, it will be remembered that the laces would have been sold by them for charity. They have no money of their own.

Evading custom house regulations, as everyone knows, is not considered a crime even by prosperous women, of whom thousands smuggle in finery for their own use.

MALONE-BEAN WEDDING SOLEMNIZED IN HARTSELLE

At the home of the brides parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Bean in Hartselle, Miss Mary Hassell Bean and Mr. Harry L. Malone were united in marriage on Thursday morning, September 16 at 9:30 o'clock, in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends. For the occasion the home was a veritable bower of asters and lilies combined with ferns and ivy. The spacious porches were also decorated with a profusion of the same flowers.

Miss Will Evelyn Bean, a sister of the bride, was her attendant and she was lovely in a channel red creation, carrying an arm bouquet of bridesmaids roses. The bride came down the stairway while the groom entered from the rear with his cousin, Charles Edward Malone who was his best man. They met in the living room before an improvised altar, fashioned out of tiers of ferns and floor baskets filled with vari-colored asters. The bride was beautiful in her wedding costume of brown flat crepe with which she wore blond accessories. Her shower bouquet was pink roses and lilies of the valley. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Eric Howell rendered two beautiful vocal selections, "I Promise You" by Ball and "The Heart of Her" by Cadman. She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. T. R. Lee, who also played the wedding march and softly rendered "A Dream of Love" while the vows were being taken. Rev. R. W. Anderson pastor of the Hartselle Methodist church, officiated at the nuptials.

Mr. and Mrs. Malone left immediately for a several weeks motor tour of points in Florida and after October first will be at home with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Malone. The Twin Cities are fortunate in having Mrs. Bean come into our midst as she was one of Hartselle's most attractive and accomplished young girls. The bridegroom, though quite a young man, already is prominent in business circles.

Child-Birth

FOR the expectant mother's comfort and well being, there is nothing that equals Mother's Friend. Its highly refined oils and other wonderful ingredients quickly commends it to the thoughtful mother. Through the daily use of Mother's Friend the skin is made soft and pliable—thus aiding Nature to do her part without the unnecessary discomfort and pain. This is why Mother's Friend has proven such a blessing to expectant mothers for over three generations. Mother's Friend is the formula of an eminent physician. It is safe for you to use because it contains no harmful drugs and is applied externally.

"I will tell all my friends about Mother's Friend," writes Mrs. Ben Abraham, Princeton, Ill. "It is a wonderful help all through the period."

Where Did She Get That Graceful Figure

You remember her of course—not so long ago she was a regular scare-crow—skinny is a mild word for the way she looked.

Just look at her now—if ever a woman had a perfect figure she has it—she is the envy of half the girls in town.

It's nothing to get excited about—all she did was to take on weight—filled out the hollows in face, neck and chest—any skinny, weak, run down woman can do the same and gain a clean clear complexion at the same time.

Just get 60 McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets for 60 cents at Caddell Drug Co., or any druggist anywhere—take 2 after each meal and two at bedtime and if any excessively thin woman, or man either for that matter, doesn't gain at least five pounds in 30 days! Why! Money back.

SYNOPSIS

Teddy Sherwood is in an ugly fit of jealous rage at a Convent Garden Ball party given by Lady George Cornish and her husband Lamley. He is angry at Tony Fortescue, an inherited "black sheep" of a noble family for monopolizing the attentions of Chrissie Bunning a young actress. It is the first meeting of Chrissie and Tony and they fall in love with each other oblivious to everything else. They return at the end of the ball to Lady Cornish's box. A fight is averted by the latter sending Sherwood for a cab. A fanatic hint of war in a vituperative speech which breaks up the ball.

"Please," she added, turned him round and gave him a little push. And so he went blasphemously, nursing his grievance. And the inevitable fracas was averted again. "Um," said the actor, taking the last of the Major's cigars. "That man ought not to be run into Bow Street as a drunk and disorderly. His place is in Downing Street at the head of our fathered Government. He might put conscription through and disturb the German plans for war."

There, sure enough, was Teddy Sherwood, mounting guard over a dilapidated taxi of the vintage of 1905, and there, in that temporarily deserted spot which reeked with the smell of cabbages and was slippery with the water of a street-cleaner's hose, the inevitable fight took place. Without waiting for the garrulous departure of Lady George, Sherwood threw off his hat and overcoat, dashed like a bull at the expectant Tony, cried out "You dirty dog," and aimed a blow at his face.

"My dear old Teddy," said Tony, guarding it. "You have a grievance, I freely admit, but why not let me explain?"

"Explain! I don't want your blasted explanations!" And he threw in his left again.

Under the excited eyes of the tensed old woman, who clung to Chrissie to prevent her from breaking into the fracas, and those of the placid Major, who was on the look-out for a promising policeman, Sherwood's bottled-up rage exploded. Blindly, brutally, but without a vestige of science, he lashed out at the light-footed man who was not only perfectly cool and sober, but a boxer of well-known skill—one who had fought for Oxford before his presidency had been found unsuitable by the authorities, and since then had indulged in many practice rounds with prize fighters in order to keep in his eye.

The affair was made all the more absurd and one-sided from the fact that Tony, merely on his defence, kept up a rattle of light conversation, coaching his opponent as to how to take a blow, how to time his blows and where to hit for the best effect. "At which, of course, added to the deep state of Sherwood's anger and made him more and more wild and pathetic. Over and over again Tony could have knocked his friend out with the greatest ease, but, as he always explained, that would have been cruelty to animals. And so the whole business was reduced to farcicality, to the great annoyance of the taxi-driver who enjoyed nothing so much as a jolly good fight; a little to the disappointment, it must be said, of Lady George, who shared the abnoman views on this point, but to the infinite joy of Chrissie, who had been brought up in a street of frequent fighting, and was always between men, and therefore was a pacifist. Her prayer was that neither man should be hurt—Tony because he loved him, and Teddy because he had been very kind. Her admiration of Tony was up to the highest notch at his grace, his good humour, patience, and above all at his refusal to put a stop to the whole thing by laying Teddy out.

Egged on by the cabdriver and by an increasing sense of humiliation at his complete inability to get in a single blow at Tony's vulnerable parts, it is probable that Sherwood, going as Chrissie called it "mad," eventually would have attacked with his knife, if he had not skidded suddenly on the wet road, lost his feet, and come down with a crash with his head on the edge of the curbstone. There he lay, stunned; a pitiful object, poor devil.

"Oh, damn," said Tony. "What a rotten shame. I was awfully afraid he might do this."

"Bosh!" said Mortimer Pollock, pouring out the drops of a bottle of champagne. "The Germans have no such plans. War is merely the nightmare of jingoes in this age of intelligence. The Teutonic war machine is maintained as a brilliantly clever method of putting their increasing Communist into uniform. It is the epitome of Kultur, the disciplinary herding system. You're out of date, old boy." He drained his glass.

"Oh, don't say that," said the Major whimsically. "I could do very well with a nice long war. As a pukka soldier who passed through the Staff College, I should certainly be given a brass hat, a seat in the war office and pay that would add very greatly to my comfort."

Lady George held out a cordial hand to Chrissie. "Nobody's taken the trouble to introduce us," she said graciously. "And now that I remember where I've seen you before, I suppose they thought there wasn't no need. You're better known than I am, Gina. Din." She giggled at what her many sycophants would have called a witty remark. But before Chrissie could answer with more than her funny little way of wrinkling her nose like a rabbit, she turned to Tony with something of anxious haste. "Now's your chance to do a guy, quick."

Tony was genuinely surprised. "Do a guy?" he echoed. "My dear old thing, what do you mean? Chrissie and I are going home with my old friend Teddy for scrambled eggs and the best coffee in London."

"Oh, no, you're not," said Lady George. "It'll be frightfully disgruntled if we don't."

"You think so, do you? I always say you're a house of the freaks that was born with an extra skin. If you could have seen Teddy's face when he found that you intended to gobble up his partner, you wouldn't make that soup about scrambled eggs, mer boy. Minced beef would be the proper word to use."

"Yes," said Chrissie, who had seen this man go mad. "Let's slip out and get some breakfast at Lockhart's. It'll be time enough for you to look up Teddy in about a week."

But Tony refused to be mothered into running away. "Poor old Teddy," he said. "He is rather upset, I suppose. I'd forgotten all about his having brought you here, Chrissie. But that's all the more reason for our going home with him. I can apologize and put things right. He's one of the best and as human as they're made. He'll understand. Why don't we all go to Mount Street? His man's a light sleeper and nothing pleases him so much as showing his extraordinary gifts with a frying pan."

"Teddy's out to kill," said Lady George.

"My dear old thing," said Tony in his most soothing manner. "I have as many lives as a cat."

And so Lady George washed her hands of the whole thing. She had Fortunately, the great majority of Americans find work more pleasant than idleness.

Being a coward isn't worth half as much as it costs.

If wisdom grew on a man like whiskers just think of the thousands who would never have to shave.

"My husband is accused of boot-legging," said a wife to the lawyer.

"Will you take the case?" "Sure," said the attorney. Send it around any time."

Distance lends enchantment even to the radio program.

"Why do you speak of your husband as a theory?" "Because he so seldom works."

Too many people think opportunity means a change to get money without earning it.

"Why, I thought you had the Florida fever?" "I did have; but I am convalescent now."

Some secret sins are not so much of a secret as the sinners think.

Experts are trying to find the first conversational joke. The first conversational joke, we believe, was some congressman.

"Indians were the first real hair bobsers."

One prisoner at the county jail said he had a conscientious objection to breaking rocks, and quoted, "What the Lord hath joined together let no man put asunder."

Simply because a girl always comes out after dark is no reason to call her an evening star.

By the time the average thin woman gets plump enough to suit her she is ready to start in to reduce.

Too many people, while their shoulder is at the wheel, keep their hand on their pocket book.

The old-fashioned notion was that the worst thing to hit a young household was debt. Nowadays, the worst is when wife loses her job.

'Hot' Looks Good To Sports Writer

Raymond "Hot" Pepper, local lad who is striving with might and main to get aboard the Crimson Tide this year, looks mighty good to Howard Pill, sports writer of the Age-Herald. Pill, after looking over the Crimson huskies in their workout, which he declares has become a serious business with them, said today "The first string line saw the torrid "Hot" Pepper and Ben Enis, the former guard who not his flanking baptism at Pasadena, at the ends, and right well did they perform." Pill also talked with Wallace Wade, Crimson coach, who refused to make predictions regarding the Vanderbilt game on October 2, declaring that he highly respected the Commodore.

Cobb Protests August Primary

OPELIKA, Ala., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Homer D. Cobb, of Phenix City, defeated candidate for sheriff of Lee county in the primary election of August 10, has filed an appeal from the decision of the county democratic executive committee on the contest petition filed on August 16.

Cobb is contesting the nomination of W. A. Betts, who was shown by the returns to have a plurality of 120 votes. At the hearing before the county commission Cobb's petition was dismissed on the grounds of lack of jurisdiction.

SPORTS

Cards Look Like Best Bet To Win National Flag, Reds Hold To Lead

Though lagging by half a game behind the Redlegs of Cincinnati, the Red Birds from St. Louis look like the safest bets for the National League flag at this stage of play. St. Louis and Cincy both grabbed verdicts yesterday, while the Pirates were forced on the outside by their ancient enemies, the Giants.

Why St. Louis looks better now than she has for some days is seen in the fact that the Cardinals have exactly five games to play with the Phils. Opening in Philadelphia on yesterday the Cards bunched hits in the fourth and eighth innings to grab a 9-2 win. Philadelphia after a fair start this year slumped into last place and with only a very slight chance to pull out of the cellar position that club now faces Hornsby's men. However, there are times when league leaders cannot win, one of these times seems inevitable when a league leader is battling a second division club for the leadership of the league. The Cards are up against that sort of row of stumps, but the Cards have their eyes riveted upon the first flag for St. Louis in the past 38 years and the Phils are likely to prove a stepping stone.

The Reds go up against the Giants, much to the relief of the Pirates. Bucs go to Brooklyn while Chicago has an excellent chance in playing Boston, though the Cubs were dealt a double loss yesterday by the Boston club.

Reds took one from Brooklyn 7-2 when Eppa Rixey kept the seven blows well scattered. It was the Reds seventh straight win five games having been taken from the Robins.

The Pirates fell before the Giants 6-5, much as in other years when the Pirates were chasing around the top for a pennant. This lets the Pirates nearly out of the race.

The Yanks settled things in the American yesterday when they stopped Mule Uhle who has had the Indian sign on them since the opening of the season.

The Yanks may now prepare to fight for the world championship. Walter Johnson missed out again yesterday when he was battered in one inning by the Detroit Tygers for enough runs to win a game. The Senators won the last game of the double bill 9-5. The White Sox won easily from Boston.

In the Southern League Smiling Joe Martina beat Irvin Hadley in a hurlers' duel with the Pels gaining the verdict 2-0. Martina stopped the Barons with a pair of hits, while Hadley held New Orleans to three hits. Hadley and Yaryan were the only Barons to hit the agate, while Tucker and Ostergard did the hitting for the near champions, Tucker getting a pair. The Pels scored in the fourth and eighth. All hits went for one base only, so warm was the hurlers' duel. It was Hadley's last appearance as a 1926 Baron, that lad leaving for the Mound City where he joins the Washington Senators.

Memphis took a long fight from the Vols yesterday 6-5 in 11 innings. The last game of the twin bill was called at 2-2 with darkness submerging the uniformed figures on the diamond. The Chicks are now thoroughly entrenched in second place and not likely to hold up until the end of the season. Atlanta beat Mobile in the ninth inning 6-5 while Little Rock dropped a 4-3 verdict to Chattanooga.

The Barons are playing their last game of the year at Rickwood park today. They close in Atlanta.

FINANCES WORRY ATHLETIC HEADS

Equipment Is Not Adequate At The Present Time

Financial worries hang heavy over the heads of Albany and Decatur Athletic coaches as the time nears for the first game of the 1926 grid entries. Both coaches are depending upon their managers to bring in the necessary funds to provide for the year.

In Albany Coach Alford faces the need for new equipment. Some football togs have been ordered, but not yet arrived. Other material will be ordered as it seems likely that more than two full teams will be placed on the field. Two teams will be worked throughout the year, the effort being made to train the younger talent for the coming years when regulars will go into the discard via graduation.

In Decatur Coach Kirby counts heavily upon those in managerial capacity. Kirby has a pretty fair supply of equipment, but nothing vantage of these cities.

Little Series Has Crowd of 7,000

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 16.—(AP)—More than 7,000 persons were estimated to have attended the "little series" at the Montgomery baseball park last Sunday. Much interest is being shown in the games now being played.

President Cliff Green remarked today while discussing the series, which he is now busy upon, that the Southeastern Association meeting in October might be held at Montgomery.

like the material that is demanded for a full season. Kirby counts his cost at near $1,000 for the full season. Both coaches will depend to a great extent upon the sale of season tickets, to students and to townspeople. It is probable that the tickets will be good for the entire home season and will offer games at a very low cost to the spectator. The teams will have to be equipped fully before candidates can be expected to give their best for their institutions. Coaches likewise point out the advantage of placing well dressed men on foreign fields, the advertising ad supply of equipment, but nothing vantage of these cities.
